— Butler Holt, the white man who was arrested for the murder of the mysterious white woman in Columbia, but who was supposed to be his wife, has been released from custody, as his wife is alive and well. She appeared in Newberry last week, where she had come from Bath, and the authorities then released Holt. The murder is still a mystery.

— Three boys from the charity society of New York arrived in Columbia from that place and were taken in charge by Commissioner Watson. Two of them, Michael November and Edward Thornton, were sent to Ninety-Six and the other of Scotch blood, James McIntosh, will be sent to the lower part of Richland County, to Dr. J. L. Hopkins' place.

— South Carolina will have an exhibit at the World's Fair, even though it is a small one. The authorities of the fair have consented and several of the large blocks of stone will be shipped next week.

— South Carolina has 69,000 dogs and 46,000 sheep. This is not an encouraging fact. The figures ought to be reversed and then fifty per cent added to the sheep and taken from the dogs. Brewer assaulted Hyatt and was giving him severe blows when Hyatt shot him through the body, with a 44-calibre pistol ball. Brewer lived only a few hours.

— Tom Cheek and Will Brown, two white farmers and neighbors of the Enoree section, while returning from a trip to Laurens in a wagon Wednesday afternoon, became involved in some difficulty. Subsequently when they reached home and Brown and his wife were unloading the wagon in their yard, Cheek approached and fired at Brown with a shot gun. Brown escaped with a very slight wound, but several of the shots struck Mrs. Brown, one of the balls penetrating her right eye, causing it to be extracted by the doctor. Her condition is regarded as critical.

Latest War News.

Washington, September 1.—The Japanese minister has received the following dispatch from Tokio: "According to telegraphic advices received at headquarters this afternoon our army corps on the left, by fierce and repeated assaults, took possession of the heights which the enemy's right occupied. Thereupon all the enemy south of Liao-Yang began retreat. The Japanese army is now pursuing."

Mukden, September 1, 9:37 p. m.—The train service between Mukden and Liao-Yang is interrupted. The roads are impassable.

Tokio, September 1, 7 p. m.—At day-break today the Japanese army on the left delivered a fierce and successful assault against the heights to the west of Heinlingtun and the high ground to the west of Shushanpoa. It pierced the Russian lines and later forced the firemen of the Russian troops from their position on the right and center. Marquis Oyama telegraphs that his losses in these assaults were heavy.

It is believed here that General Kuropatkin has been sweepingly defeated and that the possession of Liao-Yang is a matter of hours.

General Kuropatkin's casualties from August 24 to August 28, amounted to 2,355, the other casualties have not been reported.

Tokio, September 2, 3 p. m.—The list of casualties in the fighting between Liao-Yang is growing. Indications are that it will prove to be the bloodiest battle since the Franco-Prussian war. The calculations of casualties must include the losses since August 23, for the contest has been practically continuous since then.

The Japanese have already reported over 35,000 men killed or wounded. The chief of staff of the center Japanese army, General Nodzu's, telegraphing early this morning, reported that the Japanese center was continuing to advance to-day with the object of taking a line from Shinshiyen to Liao-Yang, and effecting a rejunction with the Japanese left, commanded by General Oku.

Tokio, September 2—Noon—A telegram from the chief of the staff on the field indicates General Oku in command of the Japanese left army, gained the ascendancy over the Russian right and center by a night assault.

The Japanese gained a foothold near Heinlingtun Wednesday morning and the telegram says they occupied Heinlingtun and the adjacent area to the west of Shoushinpoa at 3 o'clock. The day morning after having delivered a successful night attack, which surprised the Russians.

St. Petersburg, September 3.—The Japanese have occupied Liao-Yang. It is officially announced that Gen. Kuropatkin is retreating, that Liao-Yang has been abandoned and that Gen. Stakleburg's corps has been cut off. A dispatch has been received here from General Kuropatkin announcing that he has ordered his army to evacuate Liao-Yang and withdraw northward. The Russians blew up the magazines and set fire to the army stores and provisions at Liao-Yang before evacuating that place.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—A dispatch received from General Kuropatkin, forwarded yesterday evening, indicates that Kuropatkin's army and Kuropatkin's army are racing for Mukden, and that the result is in doubt.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—It is officially stated that the united Russian forces of Yentai, except a detachment left at that place to cover the retreat.

The Japanese swarmed across the Taitse river at its junction with the Penai.

The bulk of the Japanese forces is marching direct on Mukden.

Tokio, Sept. 5.—Field Marshal Oyama has succeeded in getting his entire army across the Taitse river and is in hot pursuit of the Russians.

Tokio, Sept. 5, 8:00 p. m.—A mass of official reports on the battle of Liao-Yang reached the imperial headquarters to-day, but they will not be given out until it is possible to put them in order and make a concise and detailed report.

It is generally known that General Kuropatkin succeeded by means of a desperate rear guard action and strong and well handled flank movement in withdrawing the great bulk of the Russian army and that he cut bridges to hamper the Japanese pursuit. The critical interest centers in the operations of the Japanese right wing, which occurred late Friday night and early Saturday morning. General Kuropatkin then swung to the westward, his movement being designed to flank the remainder of the Russians left at Liao-Yang.

It is believed here that General Kuropatkin is bound to lose many prisoners to the Japanese. It is possible, however, that the topographical difficulties and the overwhelming opposition of the Russians may check this movement on the part of General Kuropatkin.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—According to the latest but not official reports to the war office some rear guard fighting is progressing, and the retirement of General Kuropatkin's army is continuing.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5, 5:53 p. m.—The report that the Emperor will go to the front is again revived and now seems to have foundation. It is known that the imperial train has been fitted out for a long journey.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—General Stakleburg and his corps, twenty-five thousand strong, have escaped to Yentai and joined Kuropatkin.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—It is reported here, but not confirmed, that General Kuropatkin was obliged to abandon two hundred guns at Liao-Yang, some of them, it is added, were damaged in the fighting and the rest were disabled by order of the Russian commander-in-chief.

— There is the greatest demand for cotton pickers in the cotton region of Texas known in twenty years, and in many cities and towns, draymen, delivery boys and cooks and even hotel help are being induced by high prices paid for picking to go to the fields. The hot weather of the past ten days has caused all the cotton not destroyed by insects to open, thus creating an extraordinary demand for pickers. The crop in central Texas promises to be better than last year.
